The CHEMSTAR DIPE Task Group is organized under the ACC Isopropanol Panel. I apologize for any confusion this may have caused. We would like the CHEMSTAR DIPE Task Group to be referenced as the sponsor. If you have any other questions, please do not hesitate to contact me. Thanks. Sarah McLallen

Dear Ms. McLallen,

Another issue has surfaced on which we need clarification from you. Your email below names the "CHEMSTAR DIPE Task Group" as the consortium, contrary to the "Isopropanol CHEMSTAR Panel" as referenced in the Exxon and Shell letters. Are these the same entities? If so, which version of the name does ACC and the member companies prefer to prevent mismatches in the future as to the correct name?

I will be away from the office for an extended period and therefore would appreciate it if you'd direct your reply to Jeffrey Taylor.

Thank you in advance for your assistance.

Dear Ms. Washington: As I confirmed in our conversation today, both Shell and ExxonMobil are members of the American Chemistry Council CHEMSTAR DIPE Task Group which is sponsoring diisopropyl ether (DIPE) CASRN 108-20-3 under the US EPA Challenge Program. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me. Below, my contact information is listed.
Best regards, Sarah McLallen
